MOBILE WORKSHOPS

Livability on the University of Oregon Campus

This guided walking tour will discuss the landscape and building design components that make a university campus livable for students. Students thrive in an environment that supports a 24/7 "learning-living" experience, offers refuge from their studies, and immerses them in new ways and ideas of learning. These spaces are often oriented in the public realm – open spaces and common areas inside buildings. Along the tour, campus planners will introduce you to the university’s recently completed 19th Avenue Corridor Design and how the implementation will improve the student experience and advance sustainable transportation, supporting how more students get around. You’ll also learn about the unique way in which the public realm was analyzed to inform the conceptual design. They will also take you to various open spaces and inside new student-focused facilities, including (but not limited to) Tyson Hall and the new addition to the Edith Memorial Union, to experience spaces that support informal learning, gathering, and social interaction. The tour will end with a walk towards the Knight Campus for Accelerating Scientific Impact (in construction) and discussion on how the development (and the City’s Vine St. Boulevard redesign project) will transform the campus experience on Franklin Boulevard. This 2-hour tour includes walking and taking EmX from Eugene Station to Dads’ Gate Station where the group will meet in the courtyard outside the Earl A. Chiles Business Center at Kincaid Street and 13th Avenue. COST: $50

Row River Trail: Connecting the City to Nature

Beginning in 1992, multiple stakeholders in and around Cottage Grove, including the City, Bureau of Land Management, Coast Fork Watershed Council, and others, began planning for a corridor that would connect downtown Cottage Grove with the timber town of Culp Creek, about 16 miles to the east on the shores of Dorena Lake. The trail opened in 1997 and was designated a National Scenic Trail in 2005. The Row River Trail has emerged as a key corridor connecting Downtown Cottage Grove with numerous natural, historical, and recreational resources. Learn how stakeholders assembled the initial plan, and how it has catalyzed additional investment in natural and recreational resources along the corridor and into the future. This 4-hour tour includes driving time between the Graduate Eugene and Bohemia Park in Cottage Grove and an approximately 18-mile bike ride. COST: $50 (additional cost.)

20 x 21 EUG Mural Project

The 20 x 21 EUG Mural Project is an initiative of the City of Eugene Cultural Services’ Public Art Program to create 20 or more world-class outdoor murals in Eugene between now and the 2021 IAAF World Championships. In the summer of 2019, the project engaged 21 muralists in addition to several smaller installations around town. See works by Blek le Rat, Dan Witz, Aiko, Hajin, Franco-Faulk aka Jar, Hua Tumen. HUGH: Bayne Gardiner, Matt Small, Beau Stanton and more. 2021 aims to bring color and life to Eugene’s urban landscape to foster pride and contribute to a sense of identity. As the project grows, it will seek artist exchanges between Eugene artists and international cities. Participants will meet at Knee City for a 1-hour walking tour of the 2021 EUG Mural project. COST: $15
